

RCR19 - CALL FOR ABSTRACTS

Submissions are invited for Clinical Radiology Scientific abstracts, Pictorial review educational abstracts and the Audit ePoster Competition, which are held annually as part of RCR19.

Scientific abstracts

Submissions are invited for Clinical Radiology Scientific abstracts as part of the George and Vera Ansell abstract competition which is held annually as part of RCR19. Abstracts should be based on scientific research in the area of Clinical Radiology and should be entered for ePoster display or oral presentation. Both trainees and consultants are encouraged to submit.

New for this year, we also invite abstract submissions for pictorial review educational ePosters. These should be based on a theme of radiological anatomy/pathology and should be of educational interest. A series of cases should be used to illustrate the topic being presented. Trainees and consultants are encouraged to submit.

Why submit?

- Those invited to deliver an oral presentation will be eligible for a proffered paper award for which the first prize is £250. Presentations should be for up to 10 minutes.
- ePosters will be displayed on giant tablets at RCR19, the RCR website and the RCR19 conference app. ePoster authors may be invited to give an additional short presentation in the main exhibition area.
- ePosters will be eligible for the Ansell Poster Prize: £250 first prize, £125 each for two highly commended ePosters.
- All accepted abstracts will be given citable references and included in a Clinical Radiology online supplement published by Elsevier.
- 3 CPD credits for the lead author and 1 for each co-author are awarded for posters displayed at RCR19.
