What is involved?

Design a new resource or tool to improve radiation safety in healthcare. This could be innovative software or a novel use of new technologies. It might be a device or object to warn, protect or assess protection provided. Maybe you have introduced a new concept to challenge or enhance current thinking on radiation safety.

Who should apply?

Radiologists, radiographers, radiation oncologists and medical physicists or equivalent. Applications from trainees are welcome. Only BIR members are eligible for this award.

How to apply

Complete the application form at www.bir.org.uk/radiationsafetyaward giving details of the resource or tool in less than 500 words.

One award of £1,000 will be made every two years.
