

Megan Van Loon is a Medical Physicist in the radiation protection and diagnostic radiology department at Ninewells Hospital in Dundee. Megan joined YPAT to connect and collaborate with colleagues across all areas of Radiology. Megan looks forward to being involved in organising educational events such as promoting careers in Medical Physics students and contributing to the development of educational radiation protection content for current radiology professionals.